Archives for London

the independent voice for archives in the Capital

We would like to thank the following archives for the use of their images:
BT Heritage, Fortnum and Mason Archive, Girlguiding UK Archive, Hackney Archives, Hammersmith and Fulham Archives and Local History Centre, Hillingdon Local Studies, Archives and Museum Service, London Metropolitan Archives, Royal Air Force Museum and Wandsworth Heritage Service.

Keep in touch with the latest on London's archives through the AfL website and the members' newsletter three times a year.

Explore unique access to public and private archives with our exclusive programme of behind the scenes visits to the custodians of London's documentary heritage.

Discover new archive treasures and ways to access and use them through our seminar series and annual conference, where users and practitioners unearth solutions together.

Join in and help AfL represent your views and concerns on national and regional issues that affect the archives and services that you love.

AfL activities support professional development and lifelong learning to help everyone get more out of London's archives.

Archives for London, for people passionate about London's archives

Our members include family and local historians, professional and amateur researchers, academics and students and anyone working with archives such as archivists, conservators, local history librarians and records managers.

Our members represent a wide range of organisations including family and local history societies, academic bodies, professional research associations and publishers, as well as local government, business, charity and university archives, local studies and specialist libraries and museums.
